Taking advantage of Easter

The National Church Life Survey (2011& 16) spoke overwhelmingly in favour of Christians asking their- not-yet-Christian friends to church. It reported around two-thirds of people would be willing to go to church with a friend or family member if they were invited.

Easter is a time of year where public consciousness regarding Christianity is heightened and is therefore a time of year we can take advantage of - and invite our friends and family to hear about a man who helps shape and define life.

Jesus' invitation is always applicable, and never more so than at Easter where our friends and family hopefully will hear of God's love. A love of God we all need because as the Easter message affirms, our rebellion against God deserved our death as punishment, but Jesus took our rebellion on the cross and died the death I deserved.

And that is why Good Friday is amazingly good! And a message your friends and family may need your invitation to hear.
