Science

Modern science is often pitted against religion with the inference only one can exist. But the bible plays no such game, science and Christianity co-exist precisely because God created both. The beauty of science is its explanatory power and increasingly it explains exactly what we would expect from an intelligent God who creates.

Science amazingly confirms the probable existence of design, the pre-eminence of earth and humanity, the need for a beginning outside of time and the implausibility of 'nothing' leading to scientific laws.

Christians should embrace science for God is both its author and creator. We seek to discover the reality which God has written into both the DNA of humanity and of the Universe. And when we discover the truth we give glory to the one who knew it all along, God.
